

MFS INVESTMENT MANAGEMENT

BROUGHT TO CANADIAN INVESTORS
BY SUN LIFE GLOBAL INVESTMENTS

In 1924, MFS Investment Management created the first U.S. open-end mutual fund, giving everyday people the opportunity to invest their savings using a professionally managed and cost-effective investment solution.

Fast forward to today. Sun Life Global Investments brings that same investment expertise to Canadian investors through our exclusive line-up of Sun Life MFS funds.

For a century, MFS Investment Management has helped to guide American investors through every market cycle – through recessions, wars, and a pandemic.

From humble beginnings in Boston to what's now a global footprint, they have stayed true to a single purpose: to create value for clients by allocating capital responsibly.

The power of conviction

The company has the investment experience that comes with a long and rich history of money management. Over the years, MFS Investment Management has continued to leverage what they consider their greatest strength and the most important contributors to long-term returns: in-depth research and security selection.

Since the beginning, the company has selected stocks with an eye to the future. In 1924, portfolio managers purchased shares in two of the biggest companies of the day—Standard Oil of New Jersey (now Exxon Mobil), and American Telephone and Telegraph. The MFS portfolio held those two names for roughly 90 years.

Nothing says conviction quite like long-term investing.

The value of experience

MFS Investment Management has a deep-rooted history – and the investment management experience that comes with it.

Not only did the company survive the Great Depression intact, but they also provided American investors with steady and reliable income during one of the most severe financial and social crises in history. Between 1929 and 1940, through a total collapse and partial recovery of stock prices, they never missed a dividend payout.

But beyond the company's early successes, their strengths also extend far further than their U.S. origins.

Investment and Relationship Management worldwide

MFS Investment Management has offices in nine countries, responsible for everything from research to operations. Market research and insight is gathered through these global networks and put to work for investors.

As of December 31, 2023, MFS Investment Management managed more than CAD$788 billion* on behalf of investors everywhere.

MFS has built its investment process on three core elements

Collective expertise, long-term discipline, and active risk management to uncover what their investment management team believes are the best opportunities in the market.

Collective expertise

Combines diverse viewpoints within a shared value system to make what they believe to be the best investment decisions for clients.

Long-term discipline

A cornerstone of their heritage, both in how they invest and run their business. They believe a long-term view is the best way to pursue the outcomes clients need.

Active risk management

Critical to maintaining clients' confidence in their investment management. They navigate risk on the client's behalf by trying to see the company from all angles to understand what they believe is most important.

These elements work together to create an investment process designed to help clients achieve their long-term financial goals.
